

I listen to a national radio station on an FM translator. This station, K-LOVE, allows me listen to the music I choose in an area where the airwaves are full of a lot of junk. There are numerous people I know who also listen to K-LOVE. Were this station to be removed by an LPFM station, I would worry about some of the music my children are exposed to. I believe it is in the publics best interest to allow service to be provided through translators as is the case with K-LOVE. This give listeners a wider choice of their programing.
